

FGIA

2020 VIRTUAL SUMMER CONFERENCE

LISA STERLING

Managing a Remote Workforce and
HR Policies for Returning to a
Shared Workspace

Wednesday, June 24
1:00 – 2:00 p.m. CT

Presentation Overview

For many traditionally office-based employees and management teams, operating with a predominantly remote workforce has been a challenging transition. This session will address strategies for cultivating a successful remote workforce, keeping employees engaged and mentally healthy in their far more isolated daily lives, and effectively re-integrating employees to a shared office-based work environment.

Speaker Background

Lisa Sterling, Founder and CEO of R3-Engage, is a forward thinking, engaging and dynamic leader who has been disrupting the business and HR landscape to create cultural and organizational performance excellence. As a former Chief People Officer/CHRO and HCM product expert, Lisa led one of the most radical cultural transformations for a fast growing, high-tech company. Lisa is a true HR tech enthusiast, Forbes contributor and thought leader who has held significant, people centric roles at Ceridian, Mercer, Ultimate software and IBM (formerly Kenexa).

She has navigated people, cultures and organizations through successful IPOs by drastically increasing the employee and workplace experiences resulting in significant increases in employee engagement, eNPS and shareholder value. She serves as an advisor and coach to CHRO's and up and coming HR leaders across the globe.